David Tang

David Tang is the founding director of the semi-professional choir, VOX, as well as the Firebird Arts Alliance, a non-profit arts organization committed to building community by fostering artistic collaborations throughout the Charlotte-Mecklenburg region. Before his current associations, David led Carolina Voices, the largest choral organization in the Carolinas, the symphony chorus of the Charlotte Symphony Orchestra – the Oratorio Singers of Charlotte, the Choral Arts Society of Philadelphia, the orchestra program at West Virginia University, and both the Davidson College Symphony Orchestra and Chorale. He served as Associate Conductor of the Charlotte Symphony from 1998-2003, and has conducted the Charleston (S.C.), Windsor (Ontario), Quad City (Iowa) and Wheeling (W.Va.) Symphony Orchestras, members of the Philadelphia Orchestra, Philadelphia Singers and Tanglewood Festival Chorus. He has been seen on public television conducting the U.S. premiere of British tenor, Russell Watson, and as a host on New South Crossings, a collaborative TV series produced by Firebird and WTVI, for which Mr. Tang won both a Telly and Emmy Award.

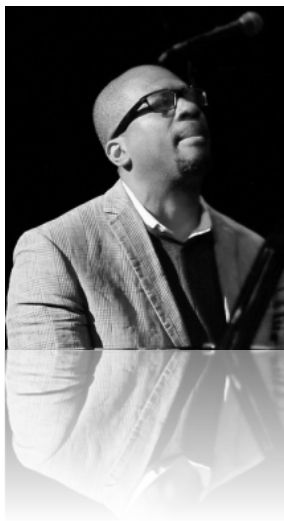

Dawn Anthony

Born in Philadelphia but raised in Georgia, she considers herself a northerner with a southern heart! Dawn attributes her versatility and skill to sing other genres to her classical training. Singing everything from classical to jazz, and musical theater to gospel—she thrives on challenging herself to grow as a musician and making connections with others beyond the words and notes on the page.

Dawn was honored to pay tribute to Ella Fitzgerald and Nancy Wilson for JazzArts Charlotte's Jazz Room series, as well as the featured soloist for JazzArts Charlotte's staging of Max Roach's Freedom Now Suite in Uptown Charlotte. At Charlotte's Middle C Jazz, she has been a featured artist on several occasions and has been able to share the music of Sarah Vaughan and more! Dawn serves as a music educator for her own organization, DNAMusic. And organization that digs deep to share the origins of music and its connections to culture and history. When Dawn isn't performing, she's lecturing, teaching, and vocal coaching.
